

Outlook for meat and dairy trade between China and Australia

Jammie Penm

Chief Commodity Analyst
Assistant Secretary/Agricultural Commodities and Trade

Research by the Australian Bureau of Agricultural and Resource Economics and Sciences

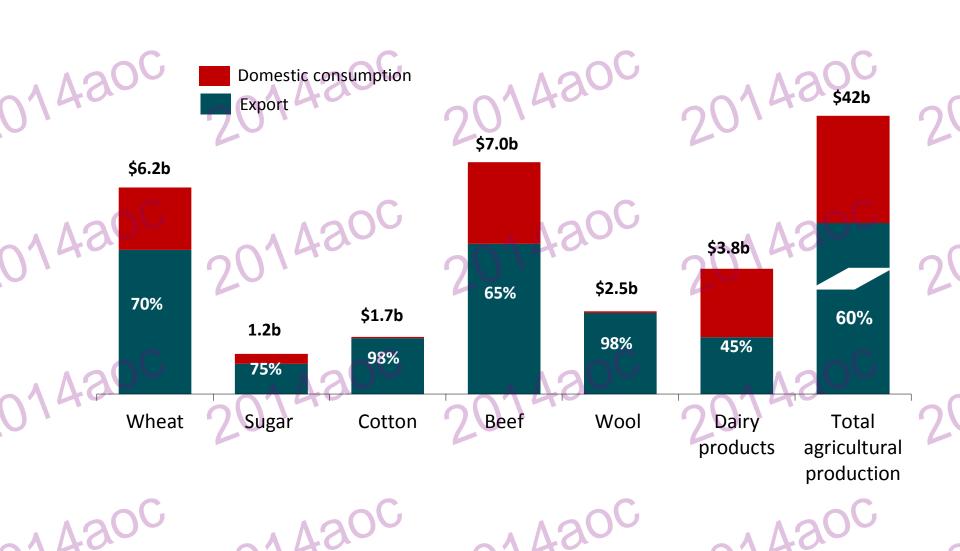

14 Australian livestock farming, 14a^{oc} 2012-13

S	2	Livestock numbers (million head)	Number of farms*	Value of production (A$ bn)	Export value (A$ bn)
	Beef cattle and calves	25.5	71 721	7.7	5.5
S	Dairy-milk	2.9	10 759	13.03.7	2.2
	Sheep and lambs	75.6	43 760	2.2	1.8
S	Pigs	2.0 AAOC	2 018	1300,9	1 A 200

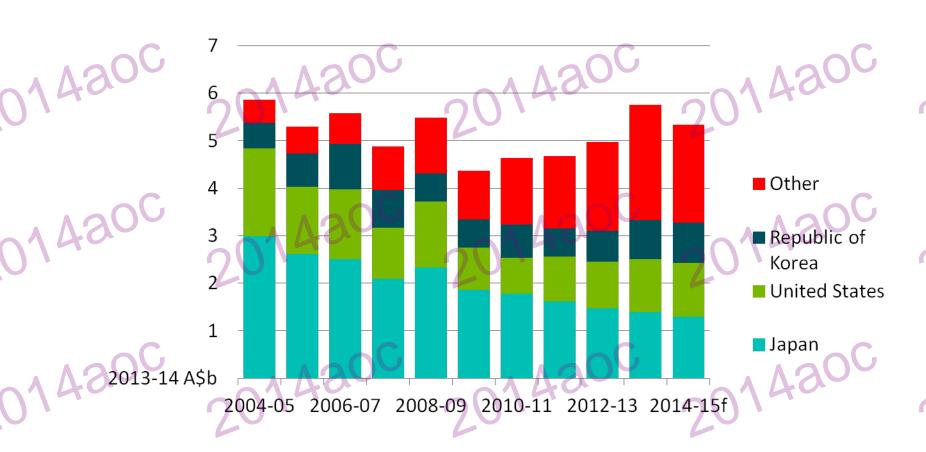

^{*} Latest available data on farm numbers is for 2011-12

Share of agricultural production exported

average for 2009-10 to 2011-12 430C

Australia is increasing beef exports to emerging markets

Australian lamb production gradually rising

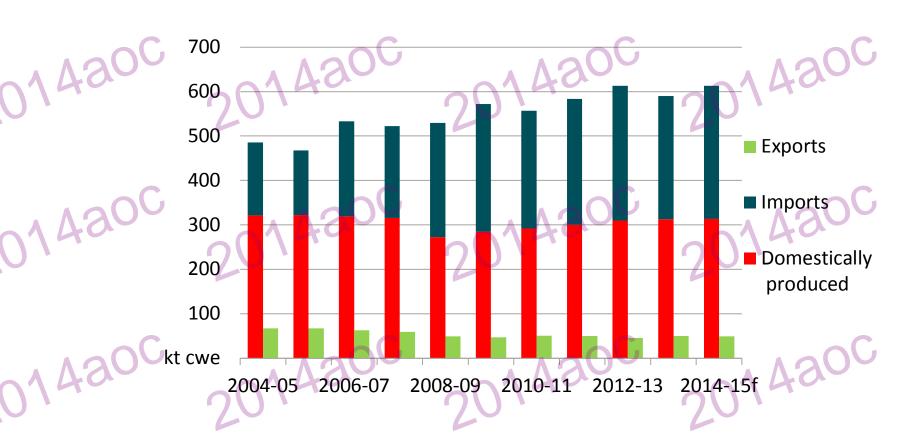

AVAC

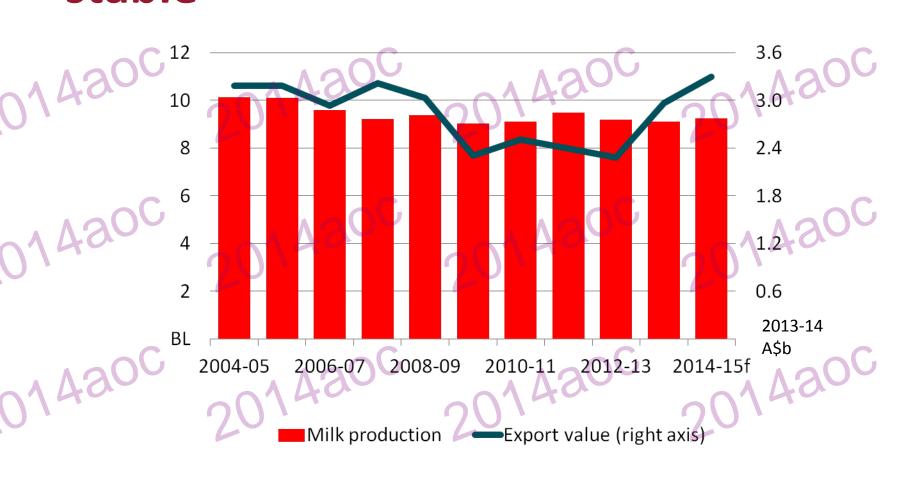

01 A2

f ABARES forecast

Australian pork mainly for domestic consumption

Australian milk production relatively stable

Australian dairy exports, major destinations 2014200

21 120C

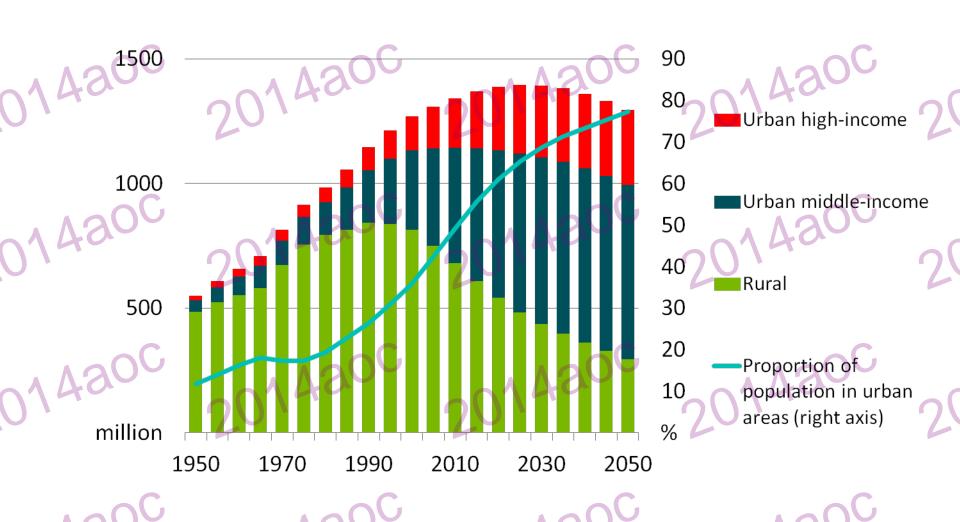

21 120C

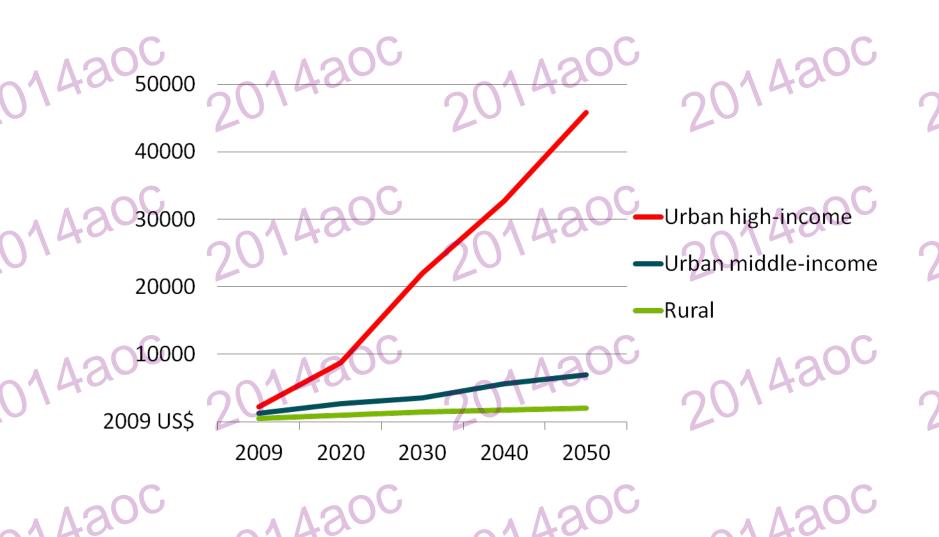

24 12OC

MADC

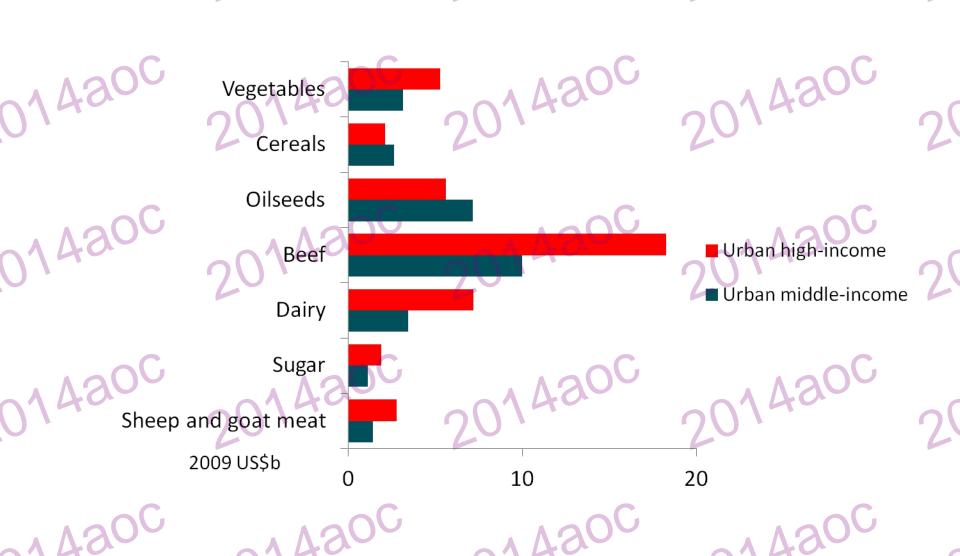

Urban population in China to grow strongly

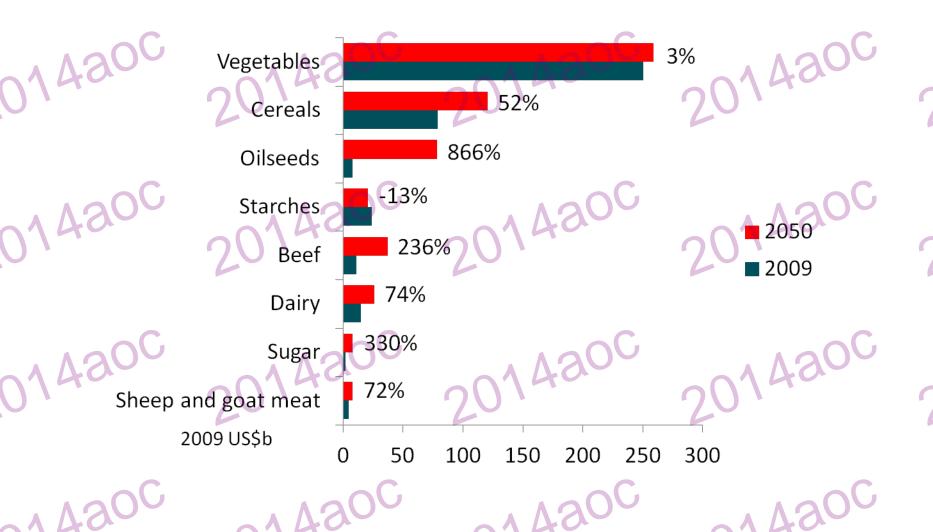

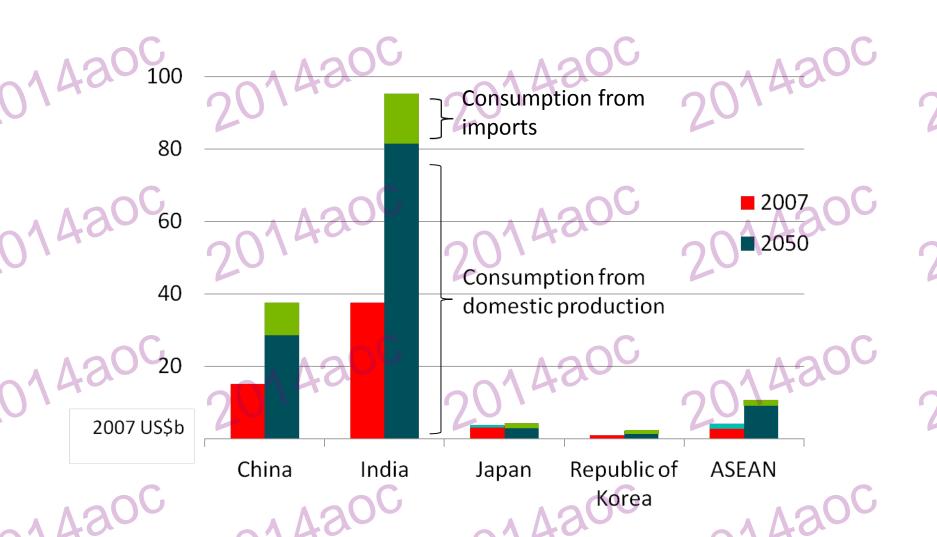

Increase in China's food consumption urban population 2009 to 2050

Projected rise in China's food consumption

Prospects for dairy consumption in selected Asian countries

China's beef imports

24 120C

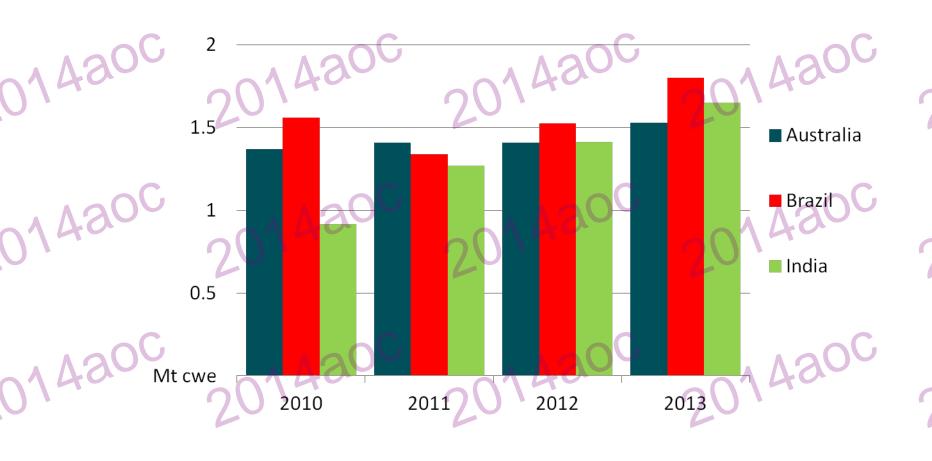

11 A20C

24 V30C

04 120C

World's largest beef exporters

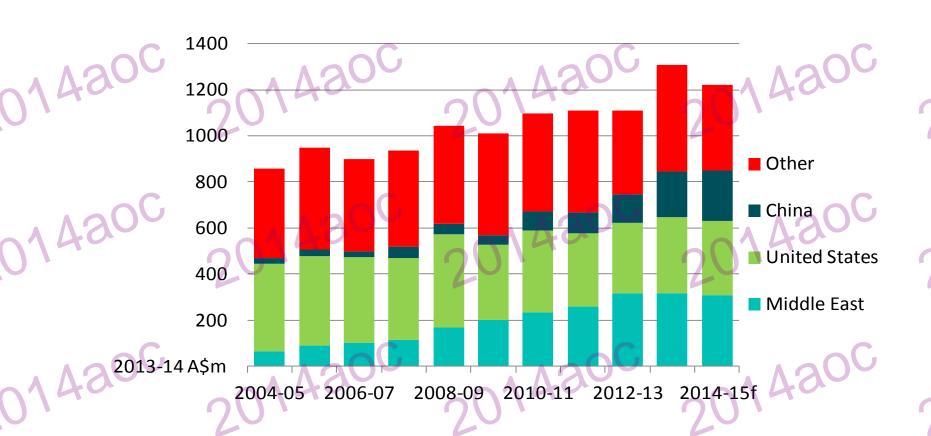

ALAOC

24 120C

24 120C

21 V301

Australian lamb exports China is becoming important

24 V30C

China's sheep meat imports 1420C

21 120C

01 120C

21 120C

1081 A

A China's dairy imports by source

1841

1841

14ac

Aa Dairy exports, world's largest Aa exporters

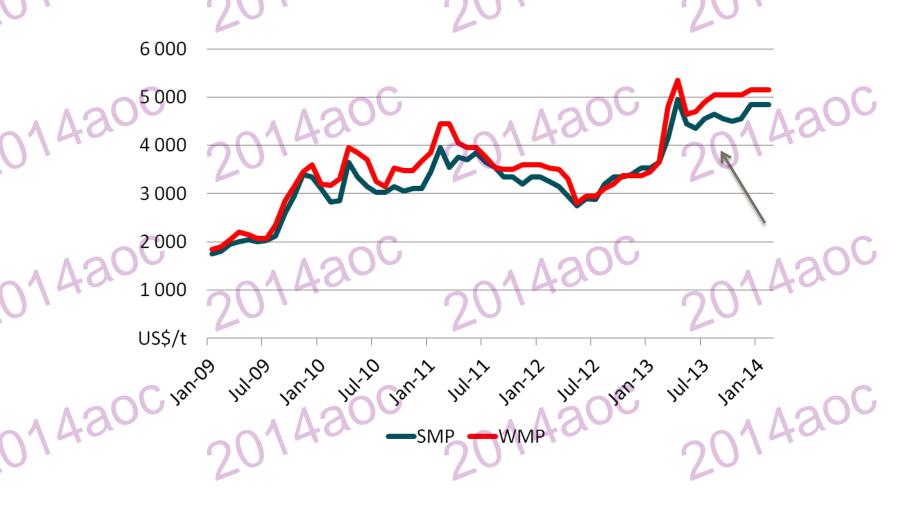

~142C

~143C

24 V30C

A World indicator milk powder prices

1841

21 421

~1 42C

140pportunities and challenges 1420C

•Demand in China for meat and diary to rise significantly toward 2050 A

- •Higher import demand in China will support world prices
- •Australia competes with other major suppliers on world markets, including China

daff.gov.au/abares

2014a^{oc} 2014a^{oc} 2014a^{oc}

MASOC MASOC

TASOC TASOC